Attorneys for Defendants-Appellees
JUDGE JAMES G. BERTOLI, ET AL.

Appellees Judge James G. Bertoli; Judge Robert S. Boyd; Superior Court Of California, County Of Sonoma; Court Of Appeal, First Appellate District; Presiding Justice Ignazio J. Ruvolo; and Judicial Council Of California respectfully request, pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence 201 and the inherent authority of the Court, that the Court take judicial notice of two pamphlets published by the Judicial Council's Access and Fairness Advisory Committee and three documents taken from official court files relating to Appellant Dr. Natalia A. Sidiakina's state-court dissolution proceedings.

This Court may take judicial notice of any matter "not subject to reasonable dispute because it . . . can be accurately and readily determined from sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned." Fed R. Evid. 201(b).

Appellees agree with Dr. Sidiakina that pamphlets published by the Access and Fairness Advisory Committee are properly subject to judicial notice because they are available through the California State Courts' official website. See Daniels-Hall v. Nat'l Educ. Ass'n, 629 F.3d 992, 998-99 (9th Cir. 2010) (taking judicial notice of information contained in school district websites).

Additionally, this Court has repeatedly recognized that it is appropriate to take judicial notice of state court proceedings. See, e.g., Sandpiper Village Condominium Ass'n, Inc. v. Louisiana-Pacific Corp., 428 F.3d 831, 837 n.4 (9th Cir. 2005) (taking judicial notice of state court trial transcript); see also Reyn's

Pasta Bella, LLC v. Visa USA, Inc., 442 F.3d 741, 746 n.6 (9th Cir. 2006) (Court “may take judicial notice of court filings and other matters of public record”). A docket sheet or “register of actions,” for example, contains the kind of facts that are appropriate for judicial notice under Federal Rule of Evidence 201. See White v. Martel, 601 F.3d 882, 885 (9th Cir. 2010); Roberson v. City of Los Angeles, 220 Fed. Appx. 522, 523 (9th Cir. 2007) (taking judicial notice of state court docket sheet). Likewise, this Court may take judicial notice of orders entered in state court proceedings that “have a direct relation to matters at issue.” Bennett v. Medtronic, Inc., 285 F.3d 801, 803 n.2 (9th Cir. 2002).

Accordingly, Appellees request that the Court take judicial notice of the following documents:

judicial officer may seek immediate review from the appropriate reviewing court by extraordinary writ to compel consideration of the accommodation request, and may bring an action for injunctive relief and damages in state or federal court.*

9 What happens if, when a case is set for trial, it turns out that a party or the party's attorney uses a wheelchair, but the courthouse has no restrooms suitable for a wheelchair user?

The case should not proceed until facilities are made available. For example, the court may offer the use of alternate, accessible restroom facilities available within the courthouse such as in jury rooms, court chambers, or other administrative areas of the court. Or it could transfer the case to another courthouse or branch that has suitable facilities. If alternative accessible restrooms are made available to parties or attorneys who use wheelchairs, the court should also provide longer trial breaks and rest periods to allow people enough time to travel between these restrooms and the courtroom.

10 Should proceedings stop if a witness is called who needs an accommodation that is not available?

No. The court is not prohibited from proceeding with other witnesses or matters until the needed accommodation is available. The court maintains its authority to set the order of witnesses and otherwise administer trials and proceedings. As a practical matter, unexpected needs for witness accommodations can be avoided by questioning attorneys and parties about whether they will be calling witnesses with disabilities who may need accommodations.

The court is, however, responsible for providing all accommodations needed by individuals, including witnesses and jurors, who use court facilities and services. For example, all courts should have lists of certified interpreters for persons with a hearing loss and of readers for the blind. Technological equipment should be available, such as assistive listening systems, printed matter in Braille, tape recordings, computer discs, real-time captioning, and other enhanced communications methods.

*Tennessee v. Lane, (2004) 541 U.S. 509.

7 May the court suggest alternative accommodations?

Yes. As discussed in question 4 above, nothing prohibits the courts from suggesting other means of accommodation to the applicant as alternatives to the requested one. In offering an alternative accommodation, the court should first determine the applicant's ability to use the accommodation provided.

For example, if a juror is blind and requests that written material introduced at trial be transcribed in Braille, the court may also consider whether providing a reader or tape-recorded transcripts of the written material would be an effective alternative. The courts are required to provide an accommodation that will allow a court user to effectively participate in the court proceedings. The court is not required to provide the user's first or preferred choice.

8 If a request for accommodation seems too intrusive on court time and management, may the court summarily deny the request?

No. It is a violation of the rule to ignore or to summarily deny requests for accommodation. Rule 1.100(f) states: "A request for an accommodation may be denied only when the court determines that: (1) The applicant has failed to satisfy the requirements of this rule; or (2) The requested accommodation would create an undue financial or administrative burden on the court; or (3) The requested accommodation would fundamentally alter the nature of a service, program, or activity." The court is not obligated to provide personal devices (e.g., wheelchairs, prescription eyeglasses, hearing aids) to individuals with disabilities. Nor is it obligated to provide them with services of a personal nature (e.g., assistance in eating, toileting, dressing). The court may appropriately deny a request for accommodation based on other limitations on the court's duty to accommodate.

An applicant who disagrees with a decision made by the court's ADA coordinator may submit a request to have that decision reviewed by the presiding judge or other designated judicial officer. An applicant who disagrees with a decision made by a

INTRODUCTION

This pamphlet on rule 1.100 of the California Rules of Court was developed by members of the Judicial Council's Access and Fairness Advisory Committee to respond to the questions that court personnel most frequently ask about the rule. This pamphlet updates an earlier version and focuses on amendments to that rule that became effective January 1, 2006.

The Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal civil rights statute (42 U.S.C., § 12101 et seq.) that requires all state and local governmental entities, including the courts, to accommodate the needs of persons with disabilities who participate in court activities, programs, and services. The ADA also requires the government to modify programs to integrate persons with disabilities, eliminate discriminatory practices or procedures, and provide alternatives to communications limitations and differences. Since 1990, when Congress adopted the ADA, California has amended or adopted legislation that further enhances access for persons with disabilities and has expanded the obligations of government, including the courts, to fully integrate persons with disabilities into society.

Rule 1.100 seeks to provide a workable and orderly framework for compliance with the ADA and state laws. The rule provides the mechanism for anyone with disabilities participating in court activities, programs, or services—lawyers, parties, witnesses, jurors, and any other participants—to request accommodations by making a written or oral request to a court's ADA or access coordinator.

1 Who is entitled to receive an accommodation?

According to rule 1.100(a)(1), "persons with disabilities" means "individuals covered by California Civil Code section 51 et seq.; the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C., § 12101 et seq.); or other applicable state and federal laws. This definition includes persons who have a physical or mental impairment that limits one or more of the major life activities, have a record of such an impairment, or are regarded as having such an impairment."

Anyone with a disability who has business with the courts, including public observers of court activities or sessions, may be entitled to receive an accommodation. Major life activities include caring for oneself, performing manual tasks, walking, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning, and working. Examples of disabilities include mobility or other motor impairments, psychological and mental illness, vision impairments, hearing impairments, and environmental sensitivities.

2 What kind of showing of the disabling condition must be provided by an applicant seeking an accommodation?

State and federal statutes and regulations do not specify the nature of a showing needed to confirm the existence of a disabling condition that requires an accommodation. Similarly, rule 1.100 does not require a particular showing. However, all requests for accommodations must include a description of the accommodation sought, along with a statement of the impairment that necessitates such accommodation. The court, in its discretion, may require the applicant to provide additional information about the impairment. Requests for accommodations may be made orally, on a Request for Accommodations by Persons With Disabilities and Response (form MC-410), or in another written format. A judge, an ADA or access coordinator, or court staff, as authorized by the court, may review the request and provide a determination.

3 Does rule 1.100 require an evidentiary hearing on the request for accommodation?

No. The process is purely administrative and does not call for a hearing. Rule 1.100(o)(1) states: "Requests for accommodations under this rule may be presented ex parte on a form approved by the Judicial Council, in another written format, or orally."

The process for requesting accommodations under rule 1.100 is not adversarial. If the request is made by a litigant, by counsel, or by a witness for a party, neither the rule nor federal laws and regulations authorize third parties to object to the request.

4 Do court personnel have to guess about the type and nature of the accommodation required?

No. The courts are obligated to inform the public generally of the availability of accommodations. If no request for an accommodation is made, the court need not provide one. The court is encouraged to ask the person with the disability to suggest an accommodation. Federal regulations state, "In determining what type of auxiliary aid and service is necessary, a public entity shall give primary consideration to the requests of the individual with disabilities." (28 C.F.R., § 35.160(b)(2).) Furthermore, the court may offer an accommodation that is different from the accommodation requested by a person with a disability, so long as the accommodation offered permits the individual to effectively participate in the court's programs, activities, or services.

The court, therefore, is not prohibited from offering an accommodation on its own. It is required to provide not the best accommodation, but rather an effective one.

5 What kind of accommodations are the courts be required to provide?

According to rule 1.100(a)(3), "accommodations" is defined as "actions that result in court services, programs, or activities being readily accessible to and usable by persons with disabilities. Accommodations may include, but are not limited to, making reasonable modifications in policies, practices, and procedures; furnishing, at no charge to persons with disabilities, auxiliary aids and services, equipment, devices, materials in alternative formats, readers or certified interpreters for persons with hearing impairments; relocating services or programs to accessible facilities; or providing services at alternative sites. Although not required where other actions are effective in providing access to court services, programs, or activities, alteration of existing facilities by the responsible entity may be an accommodation."

Accommodations must address diverse disabilities, which can vary in nature and degree from person to person. Accordingly, the type of accommodation granted can vary from person to person. Some examples of the type of accommodations that may be provided include the following:

- Changes in schedules to accommodate accessible public transportation, medication schedules, or other time-sensitive needs;
- Someone to read documents or to write on court forms the information dictated by persons with visual, hearing, manual dexterity, cognitive, or other disabling conditions;
- Hearings by telephone for people who have environmental sensitivities or mobility or other limitations; and
- Assistive listening systems, sign language interpreters, real-time captioning, written material on computer-readable discs, telecommunication devices for the deaf (TTY), reader services, and the like.

6 Is the court responsible for providing forms in Braille or real-time transcriptions, as well as other accommodations?

Yes. The court may not charge persons with disabilities for court services, programs, and activities if persons without disabilities are not charged for those same services. Federal and California law requires courts to provide, upon request by an individual who is hearing impaired, and without charge, a functioning assistive listening system, a computer-aided transcription system, or materials in Braille. However, the court need only provide the mode that permits the court user to effectively participate in the court service, program, or activity.

Federal regulations state, "[a] public entity shall furnish appropriate auxiliary aids and services where necessary to afford an individual with a disability an equal opportunity to participate in, and enjoy the benefits of, a service, program, or activity conducted by a public entity." (28 C.F.R., § 35.160(b)(4).)

accommodation offered may not be your first or preferred choice and the court will not require that you accept it. Although the court is not required to provide the best accommodation, it must provide one that will effectively allow you to participate in court proceedings.

Can the court deny my request?

Yes, the court can deny your request in certain circumstances. The court is not obligated to provide personal devices (e.g., wheelchairs, prescription eyeglasses, hearing aids) to individuals with disabilities. Neither is it obligated to provide services of a personal nature (e.g., assistance with eating, toileting, and dressing). The request can be denied if providing the accommodation would place an excessive burden on the court's financial or staff resources. The request can also be denied if providing the accommodation would significantly change the kinds of services that judicial officers normally provide to court users. If the court denies your request, you may seek review by following the process explained in detail in rule 1.100(g).

What if I'm called as a juror?

In addition to the rule, California law specifically authorizes persons who have a visual impairment or a hearing loss to participate as jurors in trials. They may be assisted by readers, interpreters, or available technology in the jury assembly area, courtroom, and jury deliberation room.

PLEASE NOTE

The Judicial Council of California adopts rules of court, provides policy direction to the courts, and presents recommendations to the Governor and the Legislature concerning court practice, procedure, and administration. As its staff agency, the Administrative Office of the Courts provides support to the council. - Relocating services or programs to accessible facilities; and
- Providing services at alternative sites.

The court, however, cannot exceed the law in granting a request for an accommodation. For example, the court cannot extend the statute of limitations for filing an action because someone claims that he or she could not make it to the court on time because of a disability. Additionally, the court cannot provide free legal counsel as a medical accommodation. (For specific cases, free legal counsel is mandated by law to provide legal assistance, but it is not an accommodation for a disability.)

What can court personnel ask about my disability? Do I have to let everyone know about my medical problems?

Under most circumstances, the court or its employees will not need additional medical or other personal information. Rule 1.100 allows the court to request further information if it needs to. Only those persons in the court who need to know about your disability to make a decision or provide you with an accommodation will learn the details of your request and the personal information that you give. The courts will not share your personal information with members of the public unless you tell the court that you give up your right to confidentiality concerning your request.

Should I tell the court that I need an accommodation?

Yes. It is in your best interest to contact the courts to request accommodations that would best suit your situation. The courts are obligated to inform the public of the availability of accommodations. But if you do not request an accommodation, the courts will not know that you need one and, as a practical matter, will not be able to provide one.

What if the court offers a different accommodation? Do I have to accept it?

The court can offer a different or alternative accommodation. For example, if a juror is blind and requests that written material introduced at trial be transcribed into Braille, the court may consider alternatives, such as providing a reader or a tape-recorded transcript of the written material. The Rule 1.100 of the California Rules of Court states: "It is the policy of the courts of this state to ensure that persons with disabilities have equal and full access to the judicial system." Under this rule, any person who has a physical or mental impairment that limits one or more major life activities, has a record of such impairment, or is regarded as having such impairment may request an accommodation. According to the rule, access can mean physical accommodation to go into and move about buildings and use accessible restrooms. Access can also mean full participation in the court's programs, services, and activities, with the assistance of technology or other services. To provide both kinds of access, courts in California are responsible for providing reasonable accommodations to court users.

Accommodations can be provided in a variety of ways. Because people and disabilities are unique, the courts and persons with disabilities must interactively discuss each person's needs and the effective accommodations that the court can provide.

Both California and federal law require that state and local governments, including courts, provide appropriate accommodations for persons with disabilities.

The Judicial Council of California, the policymaking body for the courts, adopted rule 1.100 to implement the federal Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) and related state law in the courts. Following are some questions commonly asked about rule 1.100.

What is rule 1.100?

Rule 1.100 is a California court rule that enables lawyers, parties in a case, witnesses, jurors, and other people with disabilities to request accommodations from a court.

Who can get an accommodation?

Individuals can receive reasonable accommodations from the courts if they have a disability, have a record of a disabling condition, or are regarded as having a disability that limits one or more major life activities. Such activities include caring for oneself, performing manual tasks, walking, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning, and working. Examples of disabilities include mobility or other motor impairments, psychological and mental illness, visual impairments, and hearing loss.

How do I get an accommodation? What is form MC-410 and can I get help filling it out? What if I can't read the form?

You can request an accommodation by completing form MC-410, Request for Accommodations by Persons With Disabilities and Response, available in the court clerk's office. The form and instructions should be available in alternative formats, such as Braille and large print, on request. If the form is unavailable, you can direct an accommodation request in writing or orally to the court's ADA or access coordinator.

You can make a request anytime. You should make your request as far in advance as possible in order to allow the court time to review your request and make arrangements for the accommodation, if needed. In any event, you must give the court a minimum of five court days' notice. Courts may, in their discretion, not insist upon this five-day requirement. If you need assistance in filling out the form, you may ask a clerk or other court personnel to help you write down the information. You may wish to attach documents, such as a doctor's letter, to the form.

After completing the form, you must sign it under penalty of perjury, which means that everything you state in the form is true under oath, to the best of your knowledge.

What kinds of accommodations may the court provide?

Rule 1.100(a)(3) provides that accommodations may include:

- Making reasonable modifications to policies, practices, and procedures (for example, alternative time schedules, conferences by phone);
- Furnishing, at no charge to persons with disabilities, auxiliary aids and services, equipment, devices, materials in alternative formats, readers for the blind or others, or certified interpreters for persons with a hearing loss;

SANCTIONS
There is no appearance by either side.
There being no opposition, Court adopts its previously published tentative ruling as follows:
Motion to Set Aside Oral Stipulation and Vacate Judgment is DENIED.
Petitioner has presented no evidence that the information upon which she bases her request to vacate the judgment from 2007 could not have been reasonably discovered until the motion was filed over one year after the date of the filing of this motion nor why it was not previously raised in her multiple attempts to set aside the judgment in this matter. Petitioner's request for sanctions is DENIED.

Hon:JAMES G BERTOLI Rep:MONA BABIN Clk:Maria Tapia ISSUES: ATTORNEYS FEES, COSTS, VEXATIOUS LITIGANT PREFILING ORDER, ENFORCE JUDGMENT

Petitioner NATALIA SIDIAKINA is not present.

Counsel JAMES BENOIT is present on behalf of Respondent SIAMAK
NAVID.

Hearing is held in closed session.

Court is informed that Petitioner is not appearing due to illness.

Petitioner submitted a request for accommodations under the American Disabilities Act. If there is a transcript produced from these proceedings, it is to be sealed and Respondent is not to distribute it. On 07/21/2010, Ms. Sidiakina delivered to Court, a Notice of Stay of Proceedings with a pleading for Federal Court, suing a number of parties, this judge and Court. Court received the filing but did not file the pleading. This pleading does not stay these proceedings. Court is not staying the dissolution proceedings. Court also received an objection from Ms. Sidiakina and that Court be recused from case.

Court has summarily stricken the 170.1 because request is not verified or under penalty of perjury. Court has already filed an order denying the request for disqualification. Regarding request for 170.3 where Court recuses itself and Ms. Sidiakina has filed a lawsuit against this judge, that it automatically disqualifies this judge. Judge does not disqualify himself under Section 170.3.
Section 170.4 deals with a filing which was not filed under penalty of perjury. Court addresses requests for continuance under American Disabilities Act so she may prepare the necessary pleadings due to this matter and to obtain counsel. Regarding continuance, there are no new facts. No continuance is granted as it delays the case.

There being no opposition, Court adopts its previously published
tentative ruling as follows:

Respondent's Motion for Enforcement of Judgment is GRANTED. (1) The Court orders that Attorney Douglas Provencher be retained for the purpose of negotiating with the parties' creditors. When agreement with each creditor is reached, Attorney Carla Boyd Terre is authorized to distribute funds currently held by her in trust to the respective creditors in the agreed upon amount. (2) The Clerk of the Court is authorized to return the $15,000 tendered by Respondent under his check number 2199 that was to be paid to Petitioner's attorney upon Petitioner vacating the parties' real property. These funds shall act as a credit towards the award of attorney's fees to Respondent as discussed more fully below. (3)
The Clerk of the Court is authorized to return the $15,000 tendered by Respondent under his check number 2200 that was to be paid to Petitioner's as a buy-out of her claim for permanent spousal support. These funds shall act as a credit towards the award of attorney's fees to Respondent as discussed more fully below.

(4) Respondent shall prepare the qualified domestic relations orders necessary for the distribution of Respondent's retirement benefits.

Petitioner and Respondent shall equally share in the cost of the preparation of the QDRO's with Respondent advancing the costs of preparation. (5) Wife shall vacate the residence located at 746 Adobe Drive, Santa Rosa, California, forthwith. Additionally, the Court finds that the reasonable rental value of the residence is $1,000 per month effective July 1, 2007 and that Petitioner is to pay Respondent $1,000 per month for her occupancy of the residence from July 1, 2007 until she vacates the residence. (6) The Court awards to Respondent his attorney's fees in the amount of $74,200.78 paid to respond to the appeals filed by Petitioner. The Court DENIES without prejudice, Respondent's request to have Petitioner declared a vexatious litigant. Respondent's motion was not accompanied by a memorandum in support of the motion as required by Cal.R.of Ct. Rule 3.1112.

Respondents counsel is to prepare and submit formal order for Courts signature.

ISSUES: WRIT OF POSSESSION
Petitioner NATALIA SIDIAKINA is not present.
Counsel JAMES BENOIT is present on behalf of Respondent SIAMAK
NAVID.
Hearing is held in closed session due to ADA request. Transcript of this proceeding is to be sealed, available to parties only.
Respondent is not to disburse to any third party without an order.
Court responds orally to her Motion for Writ of Possession. Court Reporter is to prepare transcript for 170.1 Motion no later than 01/28/2011, which will be attached to Court's Response. Court believes the 170.1 Motion is similar to her lawsuit with various levels of Court, etc. This constitutes another try at circumventing the law. Same issues on complaint again as her previous 6 other requests. On it's face, the 170.1 application is without merit and regecting on its face. Petitioner informally requested a continuance regarding an emergency for dental purposes.
Court has no evidence that she has had any surgery happening today.
There was no formal motion to continue hearing. Court is not granting a continuance on an informal basis. Regarding retaining the residence, undertaking of residence was denied for 3 years.
The proposed undertaking is woefully inadequate. There is no staying of this proceeding.
MOTION IS GRANTED. All is in order.

ISSUE: FIX AMOUNT OF UNDERTAKING
Petitioner NATALIA SIDIAKINA is not present
Counsel JAMES BENOIT is present on behalf of Respondent SIAMAK
NAVID.
Hearing is held in closed session as respects to ADA issues.
Petitioner filed her 7th or 8th request to disqualify. Petitioner makes an allegation that at the beginning of this month she saw a psychiatrist. The psychiatrist states that she cannot deal with her Court matters, but there is no documentation to that effect.
Petitioner did not request a continuance, but filed a Response with a counter offer.
Based on the above facts, this judicial officer does not disqualify himself, as request is invalid. Court denies this request on the Court's own motion.
Court also orders the Petitioner to post undertaking of $39,000 to perfect appeal. Clerk is to issue the Writ of Possession.
Respondents counsel is to prepare and submit formal order for Courts signature.

Re: Sidiakina v. Navid SFL-29989

Dear Ms. Sidiakina:

The Court has had the opportunity to review your request for accommodations in your marital dissolution case referenced above. As I can discern from your application, you are making eight requests for accommodations which will be addressed below:

1. Continuance of Hearing

The Court grants this requested accommodation. The hearing currently scheduled for February 26, 2010 shall be continued to July 23, 2010 at 9:30 a.m. in Department 22 of the Sonoma County Superior Court.

2. Appointment of Counsel

The Court denies your request for legal counsel. The ADA does not require a public entity to provide advisory services of a personal nature. 28 C.F.R. 35.135; Batch v. Hernandez (S.D.N.Y. 2005) 360 F.Supp.2d 595.

3. Request for Change of Venue

The Court denies your request for change of venue. The request does not identify how a change of venue would assist you in accessing judicial services, notwithstanding your disability. CRC 1.100. Your request does not identify as to how a change of venue would avoid confrontation with your former husband or his attorney as they are participants in this proceeding regardless of the location.

4. Telephonic Appearances

The Court grants this request in part. The Court will allow you to appear by telephone in any proceedings in which live testimony is not being taken. The court will consider your request for telephonic appearance in any proceeding in which live testimony is going to be taken on a case-by-case basis at which time the Court will weigh the competing interests of your request for accommodation against the due process rights of the opposing party.

5. Frequent Breaks and Flexible Deadlines

The Court cannot determine whether to grant or deny this request at this time. You must make a specific request as to individual accommodations appropriate during the proceedings. If you feel the need for breaks or continuances during the proceedings, you may request them as needed at which time the Court will consider them.

6. Presence of Disability Advocate

Although the Court is not required to provide advocate services (28 C.F.R. 35.135), you are welcome to bring your own advocate or any support person that you feel appropriate to all court proceedings.

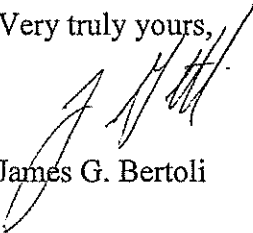

7. Video or Audio Recording

The Court will allow you to bring your own audio tape recorder to record proceedings. (C.R.C. 1.150(d))

8. Monitoring Use of Misinformation

The Court is unable to discern the nature of this request or the justification for it. On that basis, the Court denies this request without prejudice to be renewed if some specific accommodation would be appropriate. (C.R.C. 1-100).

Very truly yours,

James G. Bertoli
